Reasons for Allowance

1. Claims 20, 23-25 and 30-37 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

While Judge-570 discloses managing the download and lifecycle of an application in a memory constrained embedded device environment that allows embedded devices to be easily re-programmed and managed independently of the type of hardware it uses.

And Judge-564 (reference cited on 3/28/2003) teaches a mechanism provides data caching beyond the life of a program, allowing other programs to use the same data objects and data sharing between applications on the same embedded device.

Neither of these references taken either alone or in combination discloses a method and device for managing execution of an application according to an application lifecycle having all the claimed features of applicant's instant invention, specifically including: "instructions for communicating that the application has decided to terminate and has entered a destroyed state from a loaded state, a paused state, or an active state; instructions for communicating that the application has decided to pause its execution and has entered the paused state from the active state; and an interface including a set of instructions that enable a process other than the application to initiate execution of the instructions for starting execution of the application, the instructions for pausing the execution of the application, and the instructions for terminating the application, wherein the interface comprises a stub adapted for calling the instructions for terminating the application, the stub being capable of accepting a parameter indicating that termination of the application is unconditional when the parameter is in a first state and conditional when the parameter is in a second state". Also, there is no motivation to combine the Judge-570 reference with the Judge-564 reference to meet these limitations. It is for these reasons that applicant's invention defines over the prior art of record.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
